Private money to loan on farm security on the best terms that were ever made in Nemaha county, by Wesley Dundas, Auburn, Nebraska.

The Auburn Post changed hands the first of the week, the old material and good will having been purchased by Messrs. Bushnell and Secrist, of Lincoln, who have sent Will S. Jay, a well known newspaper man of this state, to take charge. We understand that Messrs. Stowell & Kent will continue to do business at the old stand, which is now on Central avenue and Second street.

The groom is a young man whom Evangelist Moody met in England, and being attracted by his brilliancy advised him to come to the United States. He is pastor of the Baptist church at Broken Bow. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be "at home" after October 21st.

LONDONDALE SHORTHORNS AT AUCTION.

At the home farm, seven miles northeast of Auburn and five miles northwest of Brownville, Nemaha county, Nebraska, on Monday, Nov. 8, 1897, will be sold without reserve forty Bates and Scotch Topped Shorthorn cattle, consisting of thirty cows and heifers, and ten bulls; ten cows with calves at foot; the property of John Bath. Lunch at noon. Sale to commence at 1 o'clock sharp. Parties coming by train will be conveyed from Palmage house, Auburn, to and from the farm free, also to and from B. & M. Brownville free.

Some two months ago Harry McCandless and Minor Taylor, two young men of Nemaha City, thought it would be a good joke on some one so they ordered two cases of beer from Kloos & Bauer and it was shipped. The firm was notified that the parties to whom the cases had been shipped had not called for it so it was returned to them. The government officials then took hold in the matter and the result was the two smart young men are now under arrest.

The above is taken from the Nebraska City News. That paper apparently gets as badly mixed on its news items as it does on politics. Messrs. McCandless and Taylor are the men to whom the beer was shipped, and they are the ones who made the complaint. They were taken to Lincoln as witnesses before the grand jury.

A CURIOSITY.

While Mart May was plowing a few days ago he ran on to a quail and three little chickens about two-thirds as big as the quail. The chicks were wild and hid by crouching in the grass the same as quails do. Mr. May caught the chicks and took them home. The quail fought for them as bravely as if she had been the mother and not the stepmother. A short time before this Mr. May found a hen's nest in the field with shells of hen eggs and quail eggs in it, and it is supposed the hen and quail set together, and probably the latter's eggs got broken, so she adopted the three chickens. She had no quails with her. Mr. May fastened the chicks in a box and they are getting quite tame.

Messrs. Weaver and Schoenheit, of Falls City, were advertised in the Granger and Herald to speak in Nemaha at 2 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, but evidently those papers are not read much in this vicinity, as no one seemed to know anything about the meeting when the speakers arrived. It was accordingly decided to postpone the meeting till night. We are told the chairs in the body of the hall were about half filled at night, a good many republicans being present. Mr. Schoenheit, who has been a life long democrat, told how mean the republican party had always been, and how every officer who had stolen public funds had been a republican, and was enthusiastically applauded by Mr. Weaver. Then the latter gentleman, who has always been a republican until this year, told what a grand and noble party he had belonged to, until it went back on the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and was liberally applauded by the first speaker. The republicans were well satisfied with the meeting, the speakers were pleased with themselves, and the demo-pops did no kicking, so we suppose the meeting gave general satisfaction.

The Auburn Herald is making a great ado because the expenses of the county were a few thousand dollars more in 1896, when the republicans had a majority on the board of county commissioners, than they were in 1895, when the populists had a majority on the board. But the Herald fails to state that 1895 was the dry year, and little repairs were needed on bridges or roads, while the next year there were very heavy washing rains, necessitating great expense in keeping bridges and roads in repair. The difference in this item alone in the two years would be more than the difference in the expense of the two years, as several iron bridges had to be put in last year. The farmers will not object to the republican board for a wise expenditure of money in keeping the bridges and roads of the county in good repair. The Herald also tries to create the impression that Mr. Davis was drawing an exorbitant salary, when the records show that he did not get as much as the populist commissioner, and many of the bills allowed included items for money advanced by Mr. Davis for county work.

Dr. A. S. Holladay died Saturday, October 9th, 1897, aged 70 years and 21 days. Dr. Holladay had been sick for several days, and expressed the opinion that it was his last sickness. At 10 o'clock last Saturday the doctor sprang from his chair, cried out and fell back dead. His death was caused by heart disease.

Dr. A. S. Holladay was born at Carlisle, Kentucky, Sept. 18th, 1827. He graduated from the medical department of the St. Louis university in February, 1851. November 2nd, 1855, he settled in Brownville. He was the first regular physician in Nemaha county. He established the first drug store in Brownville in the summer of 1856. He was the first mayor and second postmaster of that town. In 1868 he founded the Democrat, the name of which was afterward changed to the Granger. He was a member of the territorial legislature in 1861 and again in 1865 '6, and was surgeon in the army under Col. Furnas. He has passed most of his life since 1855 in Brownville.

The funeral services were held at the residence of Marion Baker Tuesday, Oct. 12th, at 10 o'clock a. m. The services were conducted by Rev. C. H. Gilmore. A great many old settlers were present. We noticed the following men in the audience, all of whom have lived in Nemaha county for forty years or more: R. W. Furnas, G. W. Fairbrother, W. H. McClinch, Henry Clark, Ned Opelt, John Clark, D. H. McLaughlin, Pat Daugherty, S. H. Clayton, R. V. Muir, T. R. Jones, Dr. C. F. Stewart, Dr. E. M. McComas, Alex. Robinson, J. R. Dye, A. G. Gates, Dan Riordan, R. G. Holmes, R. T. Rainey, Davidson Plasters, and W. T. Zook. The pall bearers were E. M. McComas, Davidson Plasters, John Clark, Alex. Robinson, R. V. Muir and Pat Daugherty.

At the cemetery ex-Gov. Furnas made a few appropriate remarks, in response to a request of the deceased, who a short time before his death requested that some friend say a kind word at his grave. Mr. Furnas spoke feelingly of his long acquaintance and intimate association with the deceased, and of his many noble qualities.

Dr. Holladay had a wide acquaintance throughout the state. For many years he had a large practice, but of late years has done very little. He made a fine address at the old settlers' picnic held at Nemaha August 7th, in which he spoke of the fact that the old settlers were fast passing over to the other shore, and said: "A little while longer and the last old settler must be laid away. Who will be the next old landmark removed from the band of old settlers? But let us hope there will be a reunion on the other shore of the old settlers of Nemaha county, and that all will be happy in the life beyond. No separations there, no old age, no weeping, no tears, no suffering—all will be peace and rest, and instead of the log cabin will be mansions the grandeur of which defies description and the imagination of man."

The deceased leaves a daughter, Mrs. Helen Robinson, and a brother, both of whom live in Chicago. The latter was present at the funeral.
